

13 March, 1946

Dear Ones -

I was greatly encouraged by the tone of your letters today - I received several written the 11th and 12th. Thank you for your birthday wishes.

Daddy - it is funny that I had written to you concerning my insurance. Please tell me whether I must add the $1123.20 to my 1945 Income tax return. I will sign the release as soon as I can and return it to you; I agree that option #1 is the logical step. I also accept for full your repeated words of wisdom concerning gule, beauty, intelligence, and rich fathers, Daddy!! Congratulations on your new role in Inductus Incorporated, father.

Thanks to Uncle Sam for his note. I dropped him & don't believe a note from Washington as you probably know by now. Thanks to Chris for her note and for the Harvard News. I dropped Dan Fenn a card last night.

The road from Boston is good: let's leave things this way - I will call you Sunday and probably at that time will have definite travel plans for the next weekend. I can't tell you how happy and relieved I feel to read that this is not classed as an "emergency" for Mother - I imagine that makes no agreement on my not upsetting this course at all complete. I also think that we should forget any notions of a transfer from Aberdeen - you have indicated quite often your satisfaction with my service there since I have until October and I see no point in risking my good future in my being there. Right now I know that Mother is resting well after her operation and that all will be well. I am going to mail this to York Street.

Your letter was a peach - Helen Bailey, there are the kind I love - fresh, open, relaxed. You write well, with easy flow and with humor. Your schedule of activities continues to amaze me! That you are doing so well in them all is the real topsey. God bless my dear debate - will you send me your speech notes notes of it?

Today was introductory and we had two hours of Physical Fitness tests - I am in very mediocre shape and incl. I be stuff in the morning now! Well, off to the club for some reading or budget - My best to all the class - Dor. Sumner